Encyclopedia of Diasporas Nov 24 2019 Immigration is a topic that is as important among anthropologists as it is the general public. Almost every culture has experienced adaptation and assimilation when immigrating to a new country and culture; usually leaving for what is perceived as a "better life". Not only does this diaspora change the country of adoption, but also the country of origin. Many large nations in the world have absorbed, and continue to absorb, large numbers of immigrants. The foreseeable future will see a continuation of large-scale immigration, as many countries experience civil war and secessionist pressures. Currently, there is no reference work that describes the impact upon the immigrants and the immigrant societies relevant to the world's cultures and provides an overview of important topics in the world's diasporas. The encyclopedia consists of two volumes covering three main sections: Diaspora Overviews covers over 20 ethnic groups that have experienced voluntary or forced immigration. These essays discuss the history behind the social, economic, and political reasons for leaving the original countries, and the cultures in the new places; Topics discusses the impact and assimilation that the immigrant cultures experience in their adopted cultures, including the arts they bring, the struggles they face, and some of the cities that are in the forefront of receiving immigrant cultures; Diaspora Communities include over 60 portraits of specific diaspora communities. Each portrait follows a standard outline to facilitate comparisons. The Encyclopedia of Diasporas can be used both to gain a general understanding of immigration and immigrants, and to find out about particular cultures, topics and communities. It will prove of great value to researchers and students, curriculum developers, teachers, and government officials. It brings together the disciplines of anthropology, social studies, political studies, international studies, and immigrant and immigration studies.

Africa's Contemporary Challenges Aug 22 2019 This book reviews Cabral's intellectual contribution to current debates on race, identity, nation building, democracy, leadership and ethics. The key leader of the national liberation movements of former Portuguese African colonies is considered to be one of their foremost intellectuals the continent has produced. This rare combination of freedom fighter, operational campaigner and astute political scientist justifies the academic interest in his contribution. Africa's Contemporary Challenges reviews the impact of Amílcar Cabral's thinking, and its relationship with contemporary debates about race, identity, nation building, democracy, leadership or ethics. The complexity of Cabral's vision and hopes for Africa continues to incite curiosity and interest. Cabral's tragic assassination in 1973 has removed the possibility of analysing his impact on post-independent Lusophone Africa, but his thoughts continue to be the most important reference. This book was published as a special issue of African Identities.

Postcolonial Perspectives on Women Writers from Africa, the Caribbean, and the US Apr 29 2020 Combining postcolonial perspectives with race and culture based studies, which have merged the fields of African and black American studies, this volume concentrates on women writers, exploring how the (post) colonial condition is reflected in women's literature. The essays are united by their focus on attempts to create alternative value systems through the rewriting of history or the reclassification of the woman's position in society. By examining such strategies these essays illuminate the diversity and coherence of the postcolonial project.

Unter den Augen des Löwen Apr 10 2021 'Unter den Augen des Löwen' erzählt am Beispiel einer Familie die blutigen Umbrüche im Äthiopien der 1970er Jahre. Während Hungersnöte den Norden des Landes heimsuchen, wächst in der Landeshauptstadt Addis Abeba der Widerstand gegen den alten Kaiser Haile Selassie. Dawit, der Sohn des bekannten Arztes Hailu, schließt sich gegen den Willen des Vaters einer revolutionären Studentengruppe an. Als der Kaiser 1974 tatsächlich gestürzt und die jahrhundertalte Monarchie gewaltsam abgeschafft wird, kommt eine kommunistische Gruppierung an die Macht, die das Land in einen verheerenden Bürgerkrieg führt. In den Kriegswirren gerät Hailu in Schwierigkeiten, als er einer jungen Frau, die gefoltert wurde, hilft zu sterben. Dawit geht erneut in den Untergrund. Inzwischen ist sein enger Kindheitsfreund Mickey zu einem hochrangigen Polizisten aufgestiegen. Familienbande und Freundschaften sehen sich brutalen Prüfungen ausgesetzt. Maaza Mengiste, geboren 1971 in Addis Abeba, Äthiopien. Während der kommunistischen Revolution musste sie 1975 mit ihrer Familie Äthiopien verlassen, um in Nigeria, Kenia und schließlich in den USA zu leben. Sie studierte Creative Writing an der New York University, wo sie heute lehrt. Ihr viel beachtetes Debüt Roman Unter den Augen des Löwen wurde in mehrere Sprachen übersetzt.

Wir brauchen neue Namen Nov 05 2020 Die zehnjährige Darling lebt im Chaos einer Blechhütteniedlung. Paradise heißt ihr Zuhause, und fast alles fehlt: der Vater, die Schule, der Fernseher oder auch nur genug zu essen. Doch hier lassen einen die Erwachsenen in Ruhe, die Entwicklungshelfer verschenken Spielzeug, und in ganz Afrika kann man nirgendwo besser Gärten kauen. Für alle anderen ist Paradise ein Scherbenhaufen aus zerbrochenen Träumen, für Darling der einzige Ort, der ihr ans Herz gewachsen ist. Gerade als Darling anfängt zu verstehen, wird sie von ihrer Tante in den USA fortgeschickt. Üppiges Essen, der Fernseher, die Schule – das alles ist bald selbstverständlich, nur steht sie im neuen Paradies bald vor ihrer größten Aufgabe ... Wir brauchen neue Namen erzählt von den Abenteuern eines Mädchens an einem unwirtlichen Ort in Afrika. NoViolet Bulawayo verleiht ihrer Heldin dabei eine einzigartige Stimme, die trotz allem beharrlich Lust am Leben versprüht. Und am Ende steht eine Geschichte, deren Reizen man sich nicht entziehen kann – saftig und bittersüß, genau wie Darlings geliebte Guaven.

New Trends & Generations in African Literature Feb 08 2021 "Professor Eldred Jones says 'African literature continues to be intensely political and seems destined to remain so for some time. The writers are in the thick of the fight for the true liberation of their countries, a position which is still fraught with dangers.' He believes that 'it is possible to distinguish in the literatures of most countries pre-independence from post-independence literature but only as trends rather than as sudden dramatic breaks.' The articles in this collection point up: The increasing importance of women writers; that war produces a significant change in focus; [and] the growth of literature of protest against the misuse of independence. Professor Jones says 'South African writers will now have to emerge from the dominating theme of apartheid into close examination of humanity in a "free" society ... The military phenomenon has provided Nigerian writers with a succession of sub-periods into their literary history.'"—Publisher's description.

The Trauma of Colonial Condition: in Nervous Conditions and Kiss of the Fur Queen Jan 07 2021 This study depicts the traumatic condition of the formerly colonised indigenous people of Africa and Canada. The postcolonial trauma novels Tomson Highway's Kiss of the Fur Queen (1998) and Tsitsi Dangarembga's Nervous Conditions (1988) are first-hand accounts of colonial experience under the governance of the British Empire of the second half of the twentieth century. The semi-autobiographical novels bring up the voices of the formerly silenced natives and are pioneering accounts of the native perception of Western intrusion. The narratives portray the upsetting experiences of the era of colonisation and explore the insidious consequences of living in the midst of historical change. The novels, written in English, speak back to the canon and expose the suffering of its subjects. They depict the grim atmosphere of the colonial project and show the effects of the domination, oppression, diaspora and discrimination suffered by the natives. They are life narratives and as such reveal facts that are not recorded in history books. Both trauma novels enrich and challenge the discourse on (post)colonial trauma. The native authors, Tsitsi Dangarembga and Tomson Highway, explore the questions of identity, trauma and resistance in the context of colonization. Their approach queries traditional notions of identity formation and the common understanding of trauma and trauma healing. With their portrayal of unique means for resistance and survival, the novelists offer a challenge to the existing beliefs and theories.

The Book of Not Mar 21 2022 The much-awaited second novel from one of the most acclaimed Zimbabwean writers of her generation. Following on from Nervous Conditions, Dangarembga's authorial voice delves into the educational system, the liberation struggle and attitudes of contemporary Zimbabweans in an insightful and incisive examination of a system calculated to poison and destroy the African sense of self.

Eine Geschichte der Wölfe Jul 21 2019 In den dunklen Wäldern von Minnesota wächst Linda in den kläglichen Überresten einer Kommune auf. Ihre Eltern sind über das Scheitern ihrer Hippie-Ideale zu Eigenbrötlern geworden, in der High-School kommt sie sich vor wie eine Außerirdische. In ihrer Isolation fühlt sich Linda wie magisch hingezogen zu ihrer Klassenkameradin Lily und zu ihrem Geschichtslehrer, Mr. Grierson. Es ist ein Schock, als der wegen des Besitzes von Kinderpornographie verhaftet wird und dann auch noch Lily von der Schule verschwindet. Linda hat niemand, mit dem sie über all das reden könnte. Da zieht eine Familie neu an den See. Alles bei ihnen scheint Linda gut und schön. Sie wird die Babysitterin des kleinen Paul und sehnt sich danach zu dieser heilen Familie zu gehören. Doch als Paul schwer krank wird, bleiben seine Eltern seltsam inaktiv. Soll Linda trotzdem einen Arzt rufen und damit das gute Verhältnis zu ihren "neuen Freunden" riskieren? Eine vielleicht unmögliche Entscheidung für eine Vierzehnjährige, die ihr ganzes weiteres Leben beeinflussen wird....

Postnational Feminisms Aug 14 2021 Postnational Feminisms: Postcolonial Identities and Cosmopolitanism in the Works of Kamala Markandaya, Tsitsi Dangarembga, Ama Ata Aidoo, and Anita Desai offers a significant contribution to the field of postcolonial and Third World feminist studies. It reevaluates the ways in which Third World women writers interrogate the relationship between woman and nation in the postcolonial context. Hena Ahmad brings forth the concept of «postnational feminism», which she deploys to show how these major writers challenge the role of women as signifiers of national cultures in their works. This innovative concept illuminates the ambivalence of these uniquely positioned writers as Ahmad explores the connection between postnationalism and Third World feminism.

Süßwasser Jan 27 2020 Akwaete Emezi erkundet in ihrem von Kritik und Publikum gefeierten Debütroman SÜSSWASSER wie es ist, ein gespaltenes Ich zu haben. Und sie zeigt gleichzeitig, wie wir alle unsere verschiedenen Identitäten laufend konstruieren. Ein Buch von wilder Energie und schlangenanter Eleganz – die Geburt einer neuen gleichzeitigen literarischen Stimme. Ada wächst im Süden Nigerias auf. Sie ist ein sprunghaftes und schwieriges Kind und ein Quell steter Sorge für ihre Eltern. Adas verschiedene Ichs kommen immer wieder zum Vorschein und rücken vor allem nach ihrem Umzug in die USA immer stärker in den Vordergrund. Nach einem traumatischen Übergriff nimmt Adas Leben eine dunkle und gefährliche Wendung. "SÜSSWASSER ist reine Perfektion: sexy, sinnlich, magisch, weise. Eines der unverfälschten Debüts, die ich je gelesen habe." Postkoloniale Theorie Dec 26 2019 Postkoloniale Studien zählen aktuell zu den einflussreichsten kritischen Interventionen, was angesichts der massiven Effekte des Kolonialismus nicht verwundern kann. Postkoloniale Theorie zielt darauf ab, die verschiedenen Ebenen kolonialer Begegnungen zu analysieren und dabei die sozio-historischen Interdependenzen und Verflechtungen zwischen den Ländern des »Südens« und des »Nordens« herauszuarbeiten. Diese Einführung erschließt das weite Feld postkolonialer Theoriebildung über eine kritische Debatte der Schriften der drei prominentesten postkolonialen Stimmen – Edward Said, Gayatri Spivak und Homi Bhabha. Die aktualisierte dritte Auflage unterzieht insbesondere die neuen Schriften Spivaks und Bhabhas einer kritischen Würdigung, setzt sich aber auch mit den gegenwärtigen Diskussionen um Globalisierung, Religion, Menschenrechte und Dekolonisierung auseinander.

Trauma Novels in Postcolonial Literatures: Tsitsi Dangarembga, Nervous Conditions, and Tomson Highway, Kiss of the Fur Queen Feb 20 2022 Inhaltsangabe: Introduction: This study will depict the traumatic condition of the formerly colonised indigenous peoples of Africa and Canada. The postcolonial trauma novels, Tomson Highway's Kiss of the Fur Queen (1998) and Tsitsi Dangarembga's Nervous Conditions (1988), are first-hand accounts of colonial experience under the governance of the British Empire of the second half of the twentieth century. The semi-autobiographical novels bring up the voices of the formerly silenced natives and are pioneering accounts of the native perception of Western intrusion. The narratives portray the upsetting experiences of the era of colonisation and explore the insidious consequences of living in the midst of historical change. The novels, written in English, speak back to the canon and expose the suffering of its subjects. They depict the grim atmosphere of the colonial project and show the effects of the domination, oppression, diaspora and discrimination suffered by the natives. The novels are life narratives and as such reveal facts not recorded in history books. The trauma novels enrich and challenge the discourse on (post)colonial trauma. The native authors, Dangarembga and Highway, explore the questions of identity, trauma and resistance in the context of colonization. Their approach queries traditional notions of identity formation and the common understanding of trauma and trauma healing. With their portrayal of unique means for resistance and survival, the novelists offer a challenge to the existing beliefs and theories. In the study of the novels Nervous Conditions and Kiss of the Fur Queen, which allow silenced, repressed individuals to speak out about the unspeakable events of their lives, I will explore the formation of colonial and postcolonial identities, the nature and impact of colonial trauma and the possibility of resistance on the side of the colonised. I will work towards identifying the discrepancies between indigenous and Western notions of trauma and identity, and study the challenges of postcolonial literatures. I will explore the concept of cultural hybridity as presented in the novels and study the impact of trauma on identity construction. In the process of this study, I intend to find out to what extent trauma influences and shapes identity. Moreover, I will reconsider the Western notions of trauma and identity and examine their integrity in the colonial discourse. With the help of the novels, I will study the differences [...]

Die Farben des Nachtfalters Jun 12 2021 Sie heißt Memory und sitzt in einer Zelle in Simbabwe berüchtigtem Gefängnis Chikurubi. Für eine amerikanische Reporterin, die sich für ihren Fall interessiert, schreibt Memory ihre Geschichte auf. Es ist ein Schreiben um Leben und Tod. Memory ist eine weiße Schwarze, eine Albino, die bis zu ihrem 9. Lebensjahr in einer Township aufwuchs. Dann, so glaubt sie, wurde sie von ihren Eltern an den reichen weißen Großgrundbesitzer Lloyd Hendricks verkauft. Er kümmerte sich liebevoll um sie und ermöglichte ihr eine erstklassige internationale Ausbildung. Jetzt ist er tot und Memory des Mordes an ihm angeklagt. Wer war Lloyd Hendricks wirklich? Kann Memory ihren Erinnerungen trauen? Petina Gappah erzählt diesen faszinierenden, vor dem Hintergrund der Geschichte Simbawwes spielenden Roman fesselnd wie einen Krimi und verleiht ihrer Heldin eine unvergessliche literarische Stimme.

Postcolonial African Writers May 31 2020 This reference book surveys the richness of postcolonial African literature. The volume begins with an introductory essay on postcolonial criticism and African writing, then presents alphabetically arranged profiles of some 60 writers, including Chinua Achebe, Nadine Gordimer, Bessie Head, Doris Lessing, Tsitsi Dangarembga, Tahar Ben Jelloun, among others. Each entry includes a brief biography, a discussion of major works and themes that appear in the author's writings, an overview of the critical response to the author's work, and a bibliography of primary and secondary sources. These profiles are written by expert contributors and reflect many different perspectives. The volume concludes with a selected general bibliography of the most important critical works on postcolonial African literature.

Black African Literature in English, 1997-1999 May 11 2021 This volume lists the work produced on anglophone black African literature between 1997 and 1999. Containing thousands of entries, it covers books, periodical articles, papers in edited collections and selective coverage of other relevant sources.

Die Wahrheit über Dinge, die einfach passieren Mar 09 2021 Dieses preisgekrönte Debüt erforscht, was es heißt, am Leben zu sein. Dass Dinge einfach passieren, kann Suzy nicht akzeptieren. Sie macht sich über vieles Gedanken: den Schlafrythmus von Schnecken, die jährliche Zahl der Quallenstiche oder wie alt man ist, wenn das Herz 412 Millionen Mal geschlagen hat – gerade mal 12 Jahre. In dem Alter ist Suzys Freundin Franny im Sommer ertrunken, obwohl sie eine gute Schwimmerin war. Suzy muss herausfinden, wie das geschehen konnte. Es ist ein weiter, erkenntnisreicher Weg in einer Welt voller Wunder, bis sie begreift, dass der einzige Trost manchmal ist, Dinge anzunehmen, die man nicht ändern kann. Eine ergreifende Geschichte der Selbstfindung und ein großer Blick auf unsere Existenz.

Female Characters in Nguni wa Thiong'o's "A Grain of Wheat" and Tsitsi Dangarembga's "Nervous Conditions" Jul 13 2021 Academic Paper from the year 2018 in the subject Literature – Africa, grade: 1, University of Malta (English Culture), course: The Postcolonial Novel 1: African, language: English, abstract: The three questions this paper tries to answer are to what degree the African women in both novels are or are not being dominated, what plays a role in this power-play and whether there is a significant difference between the depiction of women in the two novels, as they are set in two different African regions, Kenya and Zimbabwe. In the first section, the historical background of both plots is outlined, followed by an analysis of selected female characters of both novels. In the last section, conclusions will be drawn comparing both novels, its characters, its authors and the respective history. Men used to, and still do to some extent, dominate the literary sphere in Africa; therefore, the depiction of women was mostly that of a dutiful wife and mother. When this one-sided standard wasn't met, the rebellious protagonist was shown to 'suffer the tragic fate of the non-conformist', which comprehended dying or being outcasted. It might seem harmless at first, as it is 'just' literature, but it is important to consider the influential power it has on people's perception of the world. For this reason, it became more and more important to analyze the representation of women in books and change it to a more positive picture. As the canon of female African writers started to grow, so did the multiplicity of different depictions of female characters. This change of view was not only to be found in female authors, but in male as well. Both Nguni wa Thiong'o's "A Grain of Wheat" and Tsitsi Dangarembga's "Nervous Conditions" depict different types of women and their dual struggle in finding their own female identity against both patriarchy and the colonizer.

Sag nicht, wir hätten gar nichts Dec 06 2020 Ein preisgekrönter Roman über China von den 1940ern bis heute, über zwei eng verbundene Musikerfamilien und ihr Schicksal. Die herzzerreißenden Lebensgeschichten der Musiker, ihrer Freunde, Familien und Geliebten, die in den Strudel der Politik geraten, in das Auf und Ab von Revolution, Gewalt und Unterdrückung, führen zu der universellsten und zugleich privatesten aller Fragen: Wie kann der Mensch sich selbst treu bleiben, lieben und kreativ sein, wenn er sich verstellen und verstecken muss, weil er um sein Leben fürchtet? Erzählerin dieses vielschichtigen Epos ist Marie, die mit ihrer Mutter in Kanada lebt und nicht versteht, warum ihr Vater nach China zurückgekehrt ist. Als sie zehn Jahre alt war, haben sie einen Gast bei sich aufgenommen, die junge Ai-ming, die nach dem Massaker am Platz des Himmlischen Friedens aus Peking geflohen ist. Marie ahnte bald, dass sie eine gemeinsame Geschichte haben, und nun versucht sie, Licht ins Dunkel der Vergangenheit zu bringen.

Überleben May 23 2022 Tambudzai lebt arbeitslos in einem heruntergekommenen Hostel in der Innenstadt von Harare und macht sich Sorgen um ihre Zukunft. Bei jedem Versuch, ihr Leben wieder in den Griff zu bekommen, wird sie mit neuen Demütigungen konfrontiert. Der schmerzhaft konträre Kontrast zwischen der Zukunft, die sie sich ausgemalt und für die sie hart gearbeitet hatte, und ihrer aussichtslosen (Alltags-)Realität, führt sie in die Verzweiflung und an einen Wendepunkt. Als sie schließlich einen vielversprechenden Job angeboten bekommt, ahnt sie noch nicht, dass dieser sie letztlich um die Würde ihrer Familie und ihrer Gemeinschaft bringen wird ... Tsitsi Dangarembga geht in diesem spannenden und psychologisch aufgeladenen Roman der Frage nach, was es heißt, in einer postkolonialen Gesellschaft als Schwarze gebildete Frau zu überleben – in einem Land, das jede Hoffnung verloren hat und politisch wie wirtschaftlich am Boden liegt. "Wenn du willst, dass das Leiden endet, dann musst du handeln." Tsitsi Dangarembga

Telling Stories Jun 19 2019 The present volume is a highly comprehensive assessment of the postcolonial short story since the thirty-six contributions cover most geographical areas concerned. Another important feature is that it deals not only with exclusive practitioners of the genre (Mansfield, Munro), but also with well-known novelists (Achebe, Armah, Atwood, Carey, Rushdie), so that stimulating comparisons are suggested between shorter and longer works by the same authors. In addition, the volume is of interest for the study of aspects of orality (dialect, dance rhythms, circularity and trickster figure for instance) and of the more or less conflictual relationships between the individual (character or implied author) and the community. Furthermore, the marginalized status of women emerges as another major theme, both as regards the past for white women settlers, or the present for urbanized characters, primarily in Africa and India. The reader will also have the rare pleasure of discovering Janice Kulik Keefe's "Fox," her version of what she calls in her commentary "displaced autobiography" or "creative non-fiction." Lastly, an extensive bibliography on the postcolonial short story opens up further possibilities for research.

Schloß Gripsholm. Eine Sommergeschichte Sep 15 2021 Um ein verliebtes Pärchen, das sich eine Auszeit vom Alltag und den Sorgen Berlins nimmt, entspinnt sich eine humorvolle Liebesgeschichte. Der Besuch einer Freundin auf dem schwedischen Ferienschloss erweitert jedoch die verträumte Zweisamkeit und es entsteht ein sommerlich-reizvolles Spiel einer Liebe zu dritt, bei der jedoch mitschwingt, dass es sich nur um eine Idylle auf Zeit handelt. Kurt Tucholsky (1890-1935) war einer der bedeutendsten Publizisten der Weimarer Republik. Seine heiter-melancholische Liebesgeschichte „Schloß Gripsholm“ zählt zu seinen bekanntesten Werken und genießt bis heute höchste Anerkennung. Es ist seine zweite Erzählung nach „Rheinsberg: Ein Bilderbuch für Verliebte“ und knüpfte nahtlos an dessen Erfolg an.

Africanizing Knowledge Sep 22 2019 Nearly four decades ago, Terence Ranger questioned to what extent African history was actually African, and whether methods and concerns derived from Western historiography were really sufficient tools for researching and narrating African history. Despite a blossoming and branching out of Africanist scholarship in the last twenty years, that question is still haunting. The most prestigious locations for production of African studies are outside Africa itself, and scholars still seek a solution to this paradox. They agree that the ideal solution would be a flowering of institutions of higher learning within Africa which would draw not only Africanist scholars, but also financial resources to the continent. While the focus of this volume is on historical knowledge, the effort to make African scholarship "more African" is fundamentally interdisciplinary. The essays in this volume employ several innovative methods in an effort to study Africa on its own terms. The book is divided into four parts. Part 1, "Africanizing African History," offers several diverse methods for bringing distinctly African modes of historical discourse to the foreground in academic historical research. Part 2, "African Creative Expression in Context," presents case studies of African art, literature, music, and poetry. It attempts to strip away the exotic or primitivist aura such topics often accumulate when presented in a foreign setting in order to illuminate the social, historical, and aesthetic contexts in which these works of art were originally produced. Part 3, "Writing about Colonialism," demonstrates that the study of imperialism in Africa remains a springboard for innovative work, which takes familiar ideas about Africa and considers them within new contexts. Part 4, "Scholars and Their Work," critically examines the process of African studies itself, including the roles of scholars in the production of knowledge about Africa. This timely and thoughtful volume will be of interest to African studies scholars and students who are concerned about the ways in which Africanist scholarship might become "more African."

Reclaiming the Tomboy Mar 29 2020 With the tomboy figure currently operating in a liminal space between extinction and resurgence, this collection is an unabashed celebration of her rebellious, independent, and pioneering spirit. Reclaiming the Tomboy: The Body, Identity, and Representation pays tribute to tomboys of the past, present, and (hopefully) future.

This Mournable Body Jun 24 2022 A searing novel about the obstacles facing women in Zimbabwe, by one of the country's most notable authors Anxious about her prospects after leaving a stagnant job, Tambudzai finds herself living in a run-down youth hostel in downtown Harare. For reasons that include her grim financial prospects and her age, she moves to a widow's boarding house and eventually finds work as a biology teacher. But at every turn in her attempt to make a life for herself, she is faced with a fresh humiliation, until the painful contrast between the future she imagined and her daily reality ultimately drives her to a breaking point. In This Mournable Body, Tsitsi Dangarembga returns to the protagonist of her acclaimed first novel, Nervous Conditions, to examine how the hope and potential of a young girl and a fledgling nation can sour over time and become a bitter and floundering struggle for survival. As a last resort, Tambudzai takes an ecotourism job that forces her to return to her parents' impoverished homestead. It is this homecoming, in Dangarembga's tense and psychologically charged novel, that culminates in an act of betrayal, revealing just how toxic the combination of colonialism and capitalism can be.
